It Looks From Here

Rounding into the figurative final stretch of the campaign President Roosevelt opened his late campaign in whirlwind fashion with a speech to the Democratic State Convention in New York. Devoting the major portion of his speech to the advocacy of Governor Lehman's race for the gubernatorial election Roosevelt turned to the national scene long enough to give at least an indication of strategy in the campaign. It will be a straight New Deal race. Roosevelt is going to attack the Republican party unmercifully as the party of reaction, and state that one cannot be both semi-new deal in the West and promise increased and continued aid to agriculture with grants in aid, and at the same time promise Eastern capitalists reduced taxes, and reduced relief costs. He is going to make his appeal straight to the masses of the voters on a plea for continued support of his program. It looks from here like excellent strategy. Wherever it has been tried (in the several state primaries such as Mississippi, South Carolina, and Georgia) it has met overwhelming and even surprising success.

Thursday night in Pittsburg Roosevelt opened his appeal to labor with his second major address of the campaign. In the meantime the various polls continued to be at variance. The Public Opinion poll, more commonly known as the Gallup poll, showed Roosevelt holding a comfortable margin in popular vote and a safe lead in electoral votes. Not so the Literary Digest which still insists that Landon leads two to one. Somebody is wrong. One interesting thing about the Gallup poll is that it reveals that the younger people of the nation are considerably in favor of the President while the older people favor Governor Landon.

This month will be one of frenzied activity on the part of both candidates and the radio will carry it all, so remember to watch the papers for the announcements of the times and the places of the various addresses.

MEDICINE

Today's papers carry the announcement of another step in the relentless fight against one of the major diseases of man, cancer. This particular malady has been the most stubborn in its resistance to scientific redaction, and the latest step was announced today at a meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. It is designed to cure cancer of the lungs, and consists of radium gas administered in the lungs. Any new advances on this enemy of man is to be greeted with headlines.

MOCK ELECTION IS SPONSORED BY CAMPUS CLUB

G. S. C. W. is going to have a private part in the national elections this year—the students will go to the polls on November 3 and cast their votes for the president of the United States in a mock election to be staged on the campus under the leadership of the history club in cooperation with other campus organizations.

The mock election is being held primarily to acquaint the students with the manner in which the election is carried on, the candidates, their background, the chief planks in their platforms. There will be no political significance in the election—it is rather a means of instruction and is expected to furnish considerable interest and excitement on the campus.

The information about the candidates and their platforms will be compiled by Miss Pound's government class and will be presented in chapel.

Students to represent candidates will be selected by various campus organizations. It is expected at the present time that the two main candidates, Landon and Roosevelt, will be selected by the four classes—each class working with its sister class to select a candidate. The classes will probably draw straws to determine their political affiliations.

A period of registration will be held—all students must register and pay poll tax to be eligible to vote. Poll tax will probably be a penny, the money to be turned over to the Y.

Just prior to the fall quarter home-going a big political rally will be held to close the campaign.

Election day will be as usual the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November—or November 3, immediately following the return to the campus. Four polls will be located on the campus and will be open during the same hours as polls down town. Sample ballots carrying candidates for national and state officers and constitutional amendments will be used for voting, which will be done secretly in a voting booth.

Ballots will be counted by members of the history club and the results will be announced as soon as possible after the closing of the polls.

Never could the freshmen class at G. S. C. W. be called ordinary! Some of those monikers found on freshman placement tests would distinguish their owners in Siam. How easily Miss Josephine Shi Ansle could be turned into "Ansle Shi." One has to have a warped sense of humor and a lisp to

Freshman Requirements Freshman Junior Week

Monday morning: Breakfast—All freshmen will be required to dress in their Sunday best—this includes hat, gloves and pocket-book! They will be dressed and in front of Terrell Hall by seven-twenty. All freshmen will line up and remain in line until all upperclassmen are in the dining room. Notice: After breakfast freshmen will change clothes! No classes are to be attended in this costume! Whenever any freshmen meets a ribbon with a Junior attached to it, she will bow from the waist and repeat with greatest sincerity the following pledge of her respect:

With greatest admiration
We pledge our loyalty
We think you Juniors wonderful
In everything you do!

FRESHMEN WILL BE REQUIRED TO WALK UP ALL STEPS BACKWARDS!!!!

Special Notice: Between Atkinson and Parks will be stations an honorable foreigner, Professor Survey-Flunker. At all times of the day whenever a freshman passes by him, she must kneel three times to him, call him by name and repeat his motto. This must be done each and every time you pass by him.

5:30 All freshmen will meet on the front campus dressed as follows:

ABSOLUTELY NO MAKE UP!!!!
HAIR ROLLED UP!!!!
HAT ON BACKWARDS!!!!
DRESS ON BACKWARDS!!!!
NO BELTS OR SASHES!!!!
BOOKS IN SUIT-CASES. NO WEEK END BAGS!!!!

Freshmen will be entertained during this time on the front campus. Prizes will be awarded to the best sports of the day.

7:00 P. M. All freshmen will meet on the campus to take part in a very impressive ceremonial which will close the day's activities.

Graduate Studies At Vanderbilt

It is a great struggle not to entitle this article "Local Girl Makes Good." In this instance, the local girl is Vilda Shuman, from Coode, Ga., who was graduated from G. S. C. W. this past year, June, 1936. Last year the Colonade printed an article which stated that she had been admitted to Vanderbilt to study medicine. Now we have some more news concerning the conditions of her admittance.

There are only fifty students admitted to this particular section and of these Vilda was the only

Many Teachers Placed By Bureau During Past Year

A total of 525 requests for teachers was received by the placement bureau of G. S. C. W. for the past year according to the report of Dr. Little who headed the bureau during the past year.

"More requests for teachers have been received this year than at any time since before the depression," said Dr. Little. "It is a most encouraging sign of the renewed activity in local education in Georgia."

237 four year and two year graduates were placed by the bureau last year. A total of 274 county and city systems called for teachers from G. S. C. W. with the peak month for calls being August when 103 requests were received.

That the shortage of Latin teachers is becoming acute was evidenced by the fact that numer-

Last spring a group of students formed, under the leadership of Miss Crowell, a writer's club, which they aptly named the Scribblers. Each member is required to write one article a month. All of you budding authoresses—here's your chance!

FROSH - JUNIOR WEEK PLANNED FOR OCT. 5 - 10

For the first time in the history of G. S. C. W. freshmen will be thoroughly initiated during the Junior-Freshman Week scheduled to begin at seven a.m. on Monday morning and to be climaxed on Saturday with the traditional Annual Hike. Plans were presented to the student body following the wedding of the sister classes on Wednesday night, although they have since been slightly modified.

Since the customary "big-sister" scheme was abolished this year due to its general inefficiency, the junior class volunteered to serve as big sisters to the freshmen, since the two classes are sister classes. So, Junior-Freshman Week is set as the first evidence of the "sisterly" feeling the juniors have for the freshmen.

The week's program looks very entertaining for all the classes—with the freshmen doing the entertaining on Monday and afterward being entertained for the remainder of the week. Upperclassmen are eagerly awaiting the appearance at breakfast and in the afternoon of the new fall "best" dresses as dictated by Stylist Thomason to the freshmen.

The freshmen should enjoy the week thoroughly—provided they survive through Monday, as the remainder of the program sounds very interesting. On Tuesday, at four the two classes will hold a joint play day. A tea dance will be held on Wednesday in Terrell Recreation Hall—instructions are to come "Dressed" not in Monday's "Best" though. A scavenger hunt has been planned for Thursday. Juniors and freshmen will meet under the lights at four o'clock minus the usual cup and spoon however, as the hunt will be over at six o'clock.

Formal dinner will be served to the juniors and freshmen in the large dining hall of Atkinson on Friday night. Sophomores will be exiled to the little dining room for that night.

The week will be brought to a close with the Annual Hike to Treanor's meadow on Saturday. Detailed plans for the hike will be found elsewhere in this edition.

Officers Chosen For Y Vacancies

Four new Y. W. C. A. cabinet members were elected on Tuesday during the chapel period. The new members are Evelyn Green, Dot Ingram, Bonnie Burge, and Vallie Enloe.

Elections were held as a part of the chapel program during the budget of the Y. W. C. A. was presented to the student body and student declarations of membership and pledges were made out. The new members will fill vacancies in the cabinet left by former members who did not return to the

SPECIAL TO THE FRESHMEN

Maybe you've never heard of Carola Goya, maybe you haven't the remotest idea of who Wilbur Evans is, you may not even know whether Toscha Seidel is a Russian dish or a violinist—maybe you can't understand the enthusiasm the upperclassmen are displaying over the membership drive for the concert series. But listen—last year many of us upperclassmen—perhaps most of us—didn't know who Seidel and Goya and The Russian Singers and Evans were—but we'll never forget them!

Last year many of the upperclassmen were unacquainted with the artists named as possible features of the entertainment program, but that was our fault—not theirs. It's been a very great factor in our process of becoming educated—becoming acquainted with those whose artistic contributions are so well known in musical centers.

So often the South has been referred to as a sort of desert where culture was "gone with the wind" and would not again flourish. We have had in the past the advantages of many of the northern and eastern colleges to hear the best in music, see the best in plays. Then too we are not located sufficiently close to a large city to have the opportunities offered there. Trips to Atlanta to attend various numbers of their artist series have been arranged, but the expense as well as the problem of transportation was too great to permit this plan to work really effectively. Then too, only a few members of the student body were afforded this additional opportunity to augment the entertainment furnished on the campus.

Consequently, the artist series as presented here last year seems the ideal solution to the problem. Through the cooperation of students and citizens of Milledgeville a much finer program may be secured than would be available to either group working independently.

That seems to us the only adequate way to convince you that you can't afford not to buy your ticket right away. The concert series offers you the opportunity for the attaining of that higher cultural level that you, as college women, should be seeking.

We address this editorial especially to you, because there is no need to appeal to the upperclassmen. They know exactly what the situation is, and whether or not they want it. To them it is a direct challenge. You freshmen are given an opportunity now to join a club that will mean as much to you as you wish for it to do. The concert association seeks to bring to the campus outstanding figures in the musical world; to bring the worlds beloved music to Milledgeville. There is something in the glamor of seeing persons who before have been merely names, persons like Carola Goya, as exotic and as flaming as a breath from dynamic Spain. The Russian singers with all the melancholy sweep of the Russian steppes, and the exquisite melodies of Seidel's Stradivarius that makes this series the acme of extracurricular entertainment.

It is sincere advice we are offering, not a sales talk. If you miss the opportunity to join during the campaign, the chance will be completely lost as absolutely no tickets are sold at the door or after the campaign closes. You have to take our advice on this one if you don't want to be going to be very mean and say "I told you so" all we please!

Our Debut

With this issue the Colonnade makes its debut in its new size and paper. Since our debut was made a week in advance of the originally scheduled date, we hope the student body will not be severely critical of this rather hastily edited issue. It was formerly planned to start the new contract calling for the enlarged size and news print paper on Saturday, October 10. But since news which is a week old is no longer news, the editors were jerked out of their contemplation of a week's vacation by the old urge common to journalists (even would-be journalists) to print the news "while it's hot." With news like Junior-Freshman Week and the announcement of the annual hike breaking, it seemed absolutely necessary to have a paper. So as late as Wednesday night we took out typewriters in hand to meet Thursday's deadline.

We had thought to proceed leisurely with the preparation of our first edition in the new format—to have a beautifully error-free edition. Instead, we have pressed for time to the point of being tempted to cut classes to finish up the last editorial. But then—the story's the thing!

Music Hath Charms

Music hath charms... that is to say, the finished product hath charms, certainly, but the interim of attaining a state of skill is decidedly painful especially to those individuals who live near the pianos used for practice periods by the zealous music students. To have at least three hours of the day punctuated by scales is far from pleasant for the ordinary listener whose appreciation of music is limited to the performance of a skilled pianist.

Yet, obviously, no progress can be made by the musicians without practice. They are as keenly aware of the annoyance their trills and chords cause as are the disgruntled listeners. So it seems the fault lies not with the students themselves but in the fact that they have no specific place to practice where they can be sufficiently secluded so as to be free from interruptions. Surely with the enrollment in the music department steadily increasing, this warrants the provision of some place for practice periods where they may practice without disturbing others and being disturbed themselves.

If the music department is to have any real progress, if the enrollment is to continue being built up and all indications point toward a steadily increasing interest in the music department, of the college, definite practice rooms will have to be provided.

With the present building program in full swing—one building well on the way to completion and the funds for another on hand from a recent bequest, there is an opportunity at hand to relieve the situation. Somewhere in the new buildings there must be space which can be utilized for practice rooms. If the students must continue to practice in the dormitories, in the present dormitories on the campus or in the new one now in the process of construction, a separate room or rooms should be set aside and sound proofed, or else be sufficiently removed from the living apartments that it will not be an annoyance to the students who wish to study or perhaps to listen to the more polished versions offered on the radio programs.

This is definitely no criticism of the music students; it is readily understandable that they must practice and that they must have Already it seems that school has been in session for months, that "stagger-periods" are no longer hours of leisure; that there is a meeting for every vacant period and that we might accidentally turn into machines instead of happy leisurely human beings. Our campus is steadily becoming a camp where "free time" is seldom known. This tendency will increase unless we as individual students prevent it. It cannot be prevented collectively for that has been tried. The responsibility falls to each of us if we want to remain a really well balanced person.

Recreation

Each individual must poignantly realize the need of relaxation, change, diversion—Recreation. That word frightens some people. To some it means only vigorous activity; to others it means only quiet pastimes. In its true meaning recreation could be anything that is a change from the things recently done. Real recreation for you is that thing which, by so doing will make you a happier, more pleasant, more successful person. It might be vigorous sports, or even mild ones; it might be simply a walk, music, literature, dancing, conversation, solitude or art. Every person needs some recreation which takes him out-of-doors; it's a good way to learn the Beauty of Nature. What ever your recreation is it must be so vital that you are unwilling to let anything interfere with its part in your life. It must be so vital that other things seemingly important have to be neglected. Your recreation is your own make of it what you want it to be!

The Recreation Association on the campus is endeavoring to assist you in the creation of an integrated personality—of an abundant life. It offers you diversion from classes and study. Take your choice be it mild or energetic! Its program is based on situations peculiar to this campus. We urge you to take advantage of that which we can offer, for we sincerely feel the necessity of recreation in the life of every student on our campus. We offer recreational opportunities enthusiastically, hoping that you will help us make recreation a real part of the life on this campus and that you will help in the development of the program because without you there will be no program.

Elizabeth Stuckey,
Vice-president of Recreation Association.

University of Ga., to Sponsor Student Orchestra

This year for the first time the University will sponsor its own orchestra, composed entirely of students, to play for dances and other University functions. Hugh Hodgson, head of the Fine Arts Department, announced this week. It will be known as the Georgia Bulldog Orchestra, and will be under the direction of Jack Stewart, Athens.

Towns Hailed by Georgians on His Return

With a sensational summer hurdlings performance playing "second fiddle" to his chance on this fall's Georgia grid squad, freckle-faced Forrest "Spec" Towns, the first Georgia athlete ever to win an Olympic event and holder of practically every existing 110 meter high hurdle record, returned to his university home as students and citizens showered praise from every side.

In celebration of his return, Towns rode into Athens at the head of a long Pi Kappa Alpha motorcade and was honored with dinner immediately upon his arrival.

This and That

Editor's note (With the passing of Phillipa Colum the gossip column seems to have died a premature death—not only as to a possible successor to Phillipa but also as to name. Since Phillipa was the successor of Irma Gossip, and the editor refuses to sanction Lotta Nonesense, this column is being somewhat neglected so far. Any suggestions, particularly as to a name, will be greatly appreciated. While the search for a key hole snooper is going on, please bear with us).

Now that the sister classes are wedded, we shall all live happily ever after like the best of all "big, happy families" but immediately following the ceremony it seems that the "all for one and one for all" idea slipped for moment as an announcement was made explaining that the "friends" invited to the bride's reception included only the seniors. Whereupon the seniors withdrew 'Cross campus without even their sophomore sisters. But the wedding was a big success, with the brides, trembling, one of the little flower girls, and the bride's maid, all in the "process." We are still wondering at the sudden decision on the parts of Joan Butler and "Skeets" Morton to appear as the fathers of the brides rather than in their original roles of "matrons of honor."

We heard — y'understand — it wasn't told to us—we only heard that when Master D'Andrea agreed to come to G. S. C. W. he understood it was a school with an enrollment of about three hundred—three hundred—BOYS at that! Perhaps the BOYS should start an editorial campaign to get G. M. C. to change its name because that sounds suspiciously like a description of the other seat of learning in this city of institutions. Since G. S. C. W. is still clinging tenaciously to her alphabetical combination, maybe better results could be obtained in a "Down with G. M. C." campaign. A certain collegiate columnist of the Clemson "Tiger" says that editing a newspaper particularly of the collegiate variety isn't all "Beer and Skittles" and adds on second thought that for 10 years, many years he has been endeavoring in vain to find out what is a "Skittle." We'd like to know too. Do any of the geniuses or it is geni that we hear are among the freshmen happen to know the answer to that one?

One of the juniors who is sulking in her room as a result of the date ban has contributed this bit of verse to the cause.
If I die at G. S. C.
If I die at G. S. C.
If I die at G. S. C.
Send me back by C. O. D.
For all my dates have been taken away.

Hand me down my yellow dress
Hand me down my yellow dress
Hand me down my yellow dress
That's the one my fellow liked the best.

For all my dates have been taken away.

For some reason that bit of verse gives us the urge to break into poetry. Although we are not a poet by nature, for some unknown reason this doggerel has been running through our mind ever since we saw the young lady to whom it is dedicated. We hope she doesn't mind being given away.

Cohn cut a class one day

Pretty bad, isn't it. But it does us good to self-express now and then.

student turn in the fortunes of war occurs, the Fascists are going to be the victors. Westbrook Pegler, columnist now appearing in the Atlanta Constitution and many American papers has a very interesting and probing article on this situation in the Constitution for September 30. He points out that many people are being misled into supporting the Fascist side of the argument, because of a false impression that they are fighting on the side of Christianity. The fact that the rebels are using Moors from 1771, sworn enemies of the church against the Loyalists is cited as one proof of the accuracy of such a supposition. The pot has no right in Spain, says Pegler, to call the kettle black, and it is a sad commentary on our times that a nation long noted for its religious activity should lapse into the worst barbarism in warfare that the world has seen in recent history. Civil War is always the most brutal and most savage of all wars, and it is sad enough to witness the death theories of an attempted democracy and the passing of an other state into the grip of Fascism and militarism without complicating it too much with misplaced sympathy.

EDUCATION

In the major men's colleges, supported also by Co-eds it might be mentioned, time will be taken out until the end of the football hysteria. At the end of that period serious education will be resumed. In the Southern conference the outstanding team, Duke, is already beating the drums for a Rose Bowl trip, apparently ignoring little matters like Georgia Tech and the conference ruling adopted under the Graham plan, of forbidding post season games.

Incidentally, in the South we are witnessing two exactly opposite plans at work. The Graham plan, named after its originator, Dr. Frank Graham of the University of North Carolina, prohibits the giving of scholarships for athletic ability alone, and places all students on a basis of merit. Such a policy will, if carried out, result in a decline in the paid athlete. In the Southeastern, a policy of open aid to athletes is being followed. Already there have been indications of races in the bidding. The time will come, it is believed, when college football, a big business, will be divorced from college sports, a recreation, and that the colleges will be represented by paid, professional eleven.

The growth of professional football may in time reduce college football to the same rank now occupied by college baseball. When that time comes, regardless of alumni and sports writers one group will breathe fervent thanks. That group is the administrators of the colleges who have the whole unsavory mess dumped in their laps each year. The subterfuge, finagling, and general underhand methods of dealing with athletes in general simply because of an ability to run faster, push harder, or perhaps because of an ability to imitate a billy goat and outbutt another man, provide one poor commentary on education in general. It is to be repeated that it is not the boys so much that are to blame, nor the coaches, whose bread and butter depend on winning and winning often, but the entire educational setup and public apathy to a ridiculous situation that is the cause of the trouble. Two lines of approach are open. Go the whole way of the Graham plan, or the whole way of the plan now in operation in the Southeastern conference.

Beth Morrison, Shack Reddick, and Nellie Butler have been elected to represent their classes at the Recreation Board. Get in there and work, and more power to you, girls!

If it's your favorite sport or if you've never played, come out for volleyball. It's the up and coming game at G. S. C. W. Pull yourself out to the back campus every day except Friday. If you think you aren't enthusiastic, just talk to Teenie Bethel, our manager, and if you don't catch her spirit, I'll eat my new fall chapeau. All plans have not been settled definitely, but as matters stand, the games will be between groups of friends who want to come out. The main competition will be between classes, also other units will be used—such as dormitories, clubs.

Golf is fun too! Strout out to front campus on Monday and Wednesday and get golf instruction if you need them. Juliette Burrus is manager and a better one couldn't be found.

Bargains, bargains! Tennis balls 25c and white sport socks 25c are sold in the Recreation office in Bell Annex. Do your shopping early.

Lotta people go in for archery. Why don't you? It's grand sport and just think you might accidentally hit your roommate sometime (editor's note—all in the spirit of good clean fun, no doubt?) Mary Batchelor is a crack shot and she will be glad to help you improve your form—archery form, you dope!

The table tennis tourney is on. If I were a punny soul, I would say it is going off with a pong! The first round is to be played by October 4. Flash—latest results of the round show a victory for the Lattimore-Capel, due over Dale. Watch for winners on the bulletin board between Parks and Atkinson. Boesen and Walters whipped Foster and Stuckey in grand style!

There is wonderful spirit about recreation activities on this campus. Let's all help to keep this spirit alive!

Jesters Outline Year's Program

The Jesters opened their year's program Thursday night with their first regular meeting. Myra Jenkins spoke to the members, the topic of her talk being the current shows that she saw on Broadway this summer.

Helen Barron, the chairman of the programs committee this year has announced the present plan for the year's program. The Jesters will present three one-act plays. They will have a tea with a program which will consist of a forum-like criticism of four recent moving pictures. At one meeting the make-up and stage committees will have charge, taking one of the plays that the Jesters present and giving their methods of make-up and stage construction and how they achieved certain effects.

Thursday night at the meeting try-outs were held for the first play that the Jesters will present. The play is, "Trifles," a one-act drama, by Susan Glaspell. It will be directed by Mary Kethley.

What do you think?

Somewhere there must be a cure for the guest star mania which is threatening the sanity of the radio listener! Joan Crawford may reek with glamor on the screen, but it's no thrill to hear her rant about culture on some variety show. Seein' The Cinemas

We predict unusually good business at the Campus on Monday and Tuesday for heart-bumper Robert Taylor will star with his off-the-screen gal friend (or so we're told, but maybe it's just good publicity) Barbara Stanwyck, who plays the role of "His Brother's Wife." The story is placed in two extremely contrasting settings—New York where Barbara is a mannequin; and a dense South American jungle where after many complications love triumphs and everyone lives happily ever after, the brother being disposed of via the divorce courts.

Wednesday's offering is the naive Anne Shirley in "Mills." We have been an Anne Shirley fan ever since her feelings were hurt so excruciatingly in "Anne of Green Gables." She is starred with John "Little Minister" Beal.

Lionel Barrymore is starred in a unusual role in "Devil Doll" which will be shown on Thursday only. The "Devil Dolls"—thirteen inches high, are the revenge-seeking inventions of Barrymore, a scientist. He plays a dual role, transforming himself into an old woman. We read that Barrymore submitted to the old lady's clothes with fairly good graces, but that he absolutely drew the line at a bustle. Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Lawton also have roles in the picture.

Friday brings to the campus a return engagement of Shirley Temple in "Poor Little Rich Girl." Michael Whalen, and Alice Faye stars of "Sing, Baby, Sing," are also featured with La Temple, who is, as usual her very engaging self. The popular "But Definitely" and "When I'm With You" are taken from this play.

Increase In Music Students Noted

Enrollments in piano at the Georgia State College for Women more than doubled this year according to Mr. Noah, head of the music department. The increased enrollment of music pupils was so great that a new teacher of piano, Miss Mildred Smith, graduate of the Wesleyan Conservatory, was added to the faculty. Mr. Frank D'Andrea, of Columbia University has been placed in charge of the instrumental department and will also teach violin. In the absence of Miss Beatrice Horsburgh, who is away on leave of absence this year, more than fifty students have signed up for the beginners and advanced orchestras which Mr. D'Andrea also will direct. In the voice and organ departments increased enrollment has been heavy, with all students not signed up yet.

The Acappella Choir, composed of seventy voices began practice this week for its second season. Last year the choir made a statewide tour, and this year another series of concerts is planned which will surpass last year's. A Vesper Choir of one hundred voices also begins rehearsals this week. The aim of the music department under Mr. Noah is to include as many students as possible in the musical program, and place the one principal emphasis on mass musical education and participation.

Mrs. Ritchie Holds Procedure Seminar

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, past president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, will conduct seminars in parliamentary procedure on the campus this week-end. Her coming here is sponsored by the College Government Association in answer to the need for training in parliamentary procedure felt by officers of the various campus organizations.

On Friday Mrs. Ritchie met with presidents, vice-presidents and advisors of campus organizations at 10:30.

Today she will hold a special session at two o'clock for secretaries and at four o'clock will again meet the presidents, vice-presidents and advisors. All meetings will be held in Ennis Recreation Hall.

Mrs. Ritchie is the sister of Dean Ethel Adams and will be her guest during her stay on the campus.

With the Pen That Students Rate Highest
BY ACTUAL VOTE

Invented by a College Professor to Bring You Higher Grades

A college professor noticed that poor grades are often due not to brains running low but to pens running dry!

So he worked out an utterly different and basically better pen principle—and Geo. S. Parker engineered it to perfection.

Thus came the revolutionary Parker Vacumatic that has superseded every old-style pen—both scribe and sacless.

Recently the student editors of 30 college papers asked 4,699 of their readers, "Which make of pen do you own? Which pen do you prefer?"

One reason is that the Vacumatic ink supply is EVER-VISIBLE, the ENTIRE length of the barrel. It isn't merely fast-drying visibility—doesn't merely show when your pen is empty. It shows days ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW, so it can't run dry against your will.

The Vacumatic's working parts are sealed in the top WHERE INK CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them. That's why this miracle pen is GUARANTEED mechanically perfect.

And the Parker Vacumatic has no rubber ink sac or lever filler—hence has room for 102% more ink without increase in size!

Its luminous, laminated Pearl style has won every pen Beauty Contest by 2 to 1. Go and see it today at any good store selling pens. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Rental Library Adds Readers' Adviser

Just this year the library has installed a new feature that is of particular interest to the students. This feature is the rental library which, even after these first few weeks, already seems indispensable to us.

The rental library desk, in case you aren't already familiar with the layout of the building (!), is located in the main reading room to the left of the circulation desk.

Some students have been under the erroneous impression that the twenty-five cent fee entitles you to membership but only one quarter. However, once you pay this fee you are a permanent member. The faculty and town people's fee is fifty cents for permanent membership. And, since this is what the name implies, there are rental rates. These consist of five cents for three days and three cents a day for each day thereafter. Fees are to be paid when the book is returned.

There are many of the latest books in the rental library and to prove this is run for your benefit, the library asks for any suggestions you have as to what books they could obtain.

Miss Betty Ferguson is in charge of the rental library, and in addition to this she fills a place that will be exceedingly valuable to all the students—that of Reader's Adviser. Whether you realize it or not, this is an office that the campus has long needed.

Miss Ferguson is in the library every afternoon and will be glad to give you any information that she can concerning your reading problems. She can tell you about reference work and also advise you on any general reading that you wish to do, fiction or otherwise. And if you are particularly industrious and want a whole list of books on any one subject, she will make up bibliographies for your use. In short, Miss Ferguson will give you almost any reading advice you need.

The library is for your convenience; this new office was created for your use, and we hope that you appreciate the full significance of it.

BOOK REVIEW

"In The Deep South"

One of the most sociologically significant novels of recent publication is James Saxon Childers' "Novel About a White Man and a Black Man In The Deep South." It has to do with the friendship of the white man and the black man that came about as a result of their playing together on a northern college football team and the unhappiness brought about by their attempting to continue that friendship after their return to the tradition-bound south that recognized no common meeting ground for the "nigger" and the white man.

The technique used by Childers adds considerable effect to the telling of his story. In his opening book Gordon Nicholson meets Dave Parker, his negro college friend, many years after their graduation—they revive their old friendship—a liking based on mutual interest in each other's talent—Gordon being a writer, Dave a pianist of considerable merit. They see each other often while the town becomes incensed at the unnatural friendship to the point of threatening Dave with violence.

Going back then the author takes up Gordon and Dave in more detail tracing the events subsequent to their meeting. Dave had given up a promising musical career in Harlem—where the negro owns the intellectual and spiritual privilege of developing—to come south to help his people.

The renewing of the old collegiate friendship was the most difficult thing in the lives of the black man and the white man. Dave says, "I know that after all the obvious barriers are down, there still remains a curtain of some kind between a white man and a black man; but I know that there can be a friendship." However, in the case of Dave and Gordon the curtain of racial prejudice was too great—"Neither of them made the first move. Then Gordon said, 'Well, Dave, so long.' 'Yeah, so long.'"

Lawrence T. K. Griswold, famous explorer and big-game hunter, uses unique gifts to win the friendship of native head-hunters. "Savages," Griswold explained, "are tremendously keen on guns. These air rifles make ideal gifts for they are inexpensive and are not dangerous either to the bushmen or to those around them. Incidentally, I've noticed since returning from my last expedition that many grown-ups in America have discovered that it's fun to shoot air rifles and have set up target ranges in their basements, yards and game rooms." Mr. Griswold is pictured here with a few of his peace offerings.

Dean Adams Finds Golden Slipper

Of special interest to sophomores and freshman is the announcement that at last an honest-to-goodness golden slipper has been found to serve as the prize for the production contest between the freshmen and sophomores. While Miss Adams was in New York during the summer she happened to find a pewter slipper. Recalling the fruitless hunt conducted for a golden slipper last year, she purchased it. With a gold wash it is now a very creditable golden slipper—a prize which will remain permanent.

Plans for the contest seem well under way with meetings to appoint committees already scheduled. Both classes seem to be quite confident of winning—the sophomores perhaps being a little more determined since they now have the golden slipper in their possession—that is to say, the slipper which was gilded last year after vainly searching through all of Milledgeville and Macon for the real article. Competition should be keen as the sophomores are as anxious to swap off their slipper for the New York one and the freshmen are just as anxious to be the first possessors of the real golden slipper.

Another McMichael

now enrolled in the freshman class. She is the daughter of J. E. Michael of Jackson, Georgia.

Helen is taking a two year secretarial course and hopes to complete it and so be out of the way of the tenth feminine member of the family who expects to attend school here in two more years, as she is now a junior in high school.

Appreciation Class Sponsors Exhibits

The Art Appreciation class sponsored an exhibit of Mexican works at art Friday afternoon from three-thirty to five-thirty in the art classroom.

The exhibit was composed of examples of skilled workmanship brought back from Mexico by Miss Mamie Padgett who traveled in that country during the summer vacation. The unusual collection includes photographs, painted pottery of all kinds, glassware, woven bags, intricately designed textiles, brilliant jewelry, and a number of other rare articles.

New Officers Fill YWCA Vacancies

campus this year.

Evelyn Green has the rather unique distinction of being re-elected to cabinet. At the elections held at the close of her sophomore year she was elected to cabinet. However, as she attended the University of Georgia Evening School during her junior year, her place had to be filled. Now that she has returned to the campus for her senior year it is quite fitting that she should again be chosen to serve on Y. cabinet.

In addition to the election of the new Cabinet members, Sophomore Commission elected two new officers Wednesday. Edith Crawford was elected president of Commission and Marian Arthur was named treasurer.

Graduate Studies At Vanderbilt

new student. All of the others had studied at Vanderbilt previous to this year. To add further distinction to her selection, there are only two girls among the fifty and the other girl had worked in the lab at Vanderbilt.

So you see what G. S. C. W. and the Chemistry Department can produce; given, of course, a little intellect and initiative on the part of the student! To add a nice little moral, why couldn't all our "local" girls make good?

Chandler Heads Town Girl Group

Elizabeth Chandler was elected president of the town girls group at a meeting held on Wednesday during chapel period. She has formerly served as an officer of the town girls and should make a very capable leader. Serving with her are Sophie Williams, former dormitory student, as vice-president; Frances Muldrow, as secretary; Emily Shealy, as treasurer; Anita Tennille, as representative to Student Council; and Nellie Butler, as representative to recreation board.

Emily Shealy had the distinction of being the first member of the freshman class to be elected to a class office, and the regular freshman class elections have not been held yet.

The town girl delegates took part in the double wedding uniting the sister classes. As the town girls were not represented last year, this is significant as the first step toward the establishing of closer contact between the dormitory students and day students.

Spectrum Staff Elects Burge

Bonnie Burge was elected associate editor of the Spectrum at a meeting held to fill vacancies on the staff due to the failure of previously elected officers to return to school this session. Bonnie has not been on the staff of the Spectrum formerly, but has served as exchange editor of the Colonnade and has been very active in the a cappella choir. She replaces Grace Collar, who is now attending Emory University.

The organizations editor will be Mary Pitts Allen. "Pitts" has been a member of the staff and was athletic editor of the 1936 Spectrum. In her capacity as organizations editor she takes over the duties of Jane O'Neal who is enrolled at Mississippi State.

Margaret Bennett, a transfer from G. S. C. W., was selected as circulation editor to replace Mary John Brown, who is attending Vanderbilt University.

With the staff complete, plans are already being made for the annual. Editor Ruth Flurry asks that all freshmen and new students who have done annual work in high schools or college in the case of transfers, as well as any others who are interested in working with the annual see her as soon as possible.

Usual Crop Of Unusual Names

appreciate that. Neither does the class lack for famous people. Elizabeth Barrett hob-nobs amiably with Marie Antoinette (by benefit of a little poetic license).

The pity of it all! There are any number of Kings, but only one Queen among the freshmen.

Who do Miss Knight and Miss Starr do, when Violet Dawn approaches?

Miss Cleo Cannon starts her college career with a bang.

Is Becky Sue Earnest? Is Helen-Busey? What sort of questions will Geraldine Askew? What sort of names will Virginia Collier? Don't you wonder how much Mary Gaines?

How merciful it is that Mary Broome does not room with an upperclassman. She would be reminded constantly constantly that "A new broom sweeps clean."

See America first at G. S. C. W. No traveling necessary. Miss America Smith resides right here in our midst.

Marion Nutt, Mary Pills, and Euphemia Drucilla Harvey will never become just ordinary human beings like the rest of us.

The phenomenon of modern times is that among five hundred freshmen there is not one Susie Smith.

Brain Twister

Are you a genius? No, this is not the inquiring reporter, it's the title of a book of the best brain-twisters we have seen in these many years. "Cultivate your mind if you happen to have one," said Dr. Samuel Johnson. "But first determine whether you have one," say co-authors Robert Streeter and Robert Hoehn. Try this one (answer on page two).

A gruesome murder was committed by a doctor in a large city hospital. The victim, a wealthy and prominent woman, died before revealing the murder. When questioned by the nurse who found her in a critical condition, she had strength enough only to say, "When I threatened to expose him for his advances, he stabbed me."

Dr. Smith, Dr. Jones, and Dr. Brown were held as being the only persons who could possibly have committed the murder. After Inspector Thompson, who was in charge of the case, had considered the evidence, he immediately released Dr. Brown?

Why did he release Dr. Brown?

Many Teachers Placed

ous requests were received for teachers of that subject. As to departments, the elementary group was most in demand, with English second with seventy-one requests. Home Economics was third, librarians were fourth and Latin teachers fifth in demand. Commercial requests were far in excess of the supply, 21 being desired. Of all the teachers employed this group received the highest average salary. Teachers of English who can double as librarians are in considerable demand, that combination being the highest ranking for English teaching combination.
